

BRINGING QUALITY FRUITS AND VEGETABLES TO YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD

Do you currently sell fresh fruits and vegetables? Do you want to enhance your business and increase your sales? The city may be able to help!

The Philadelphia Department of Public Health launched the Philly Loves Fresh campaign in 2024 to support and promote small businesses, like produce trucks, that sell fresh fruits and vegetables. Small produce businesses serve as a valuable resource for healthy food in our communities. The Philly Loves Fresh campaign aims to increase awareness of fresh produce options in the city and encourage fruit and vegetable consumption.

Philly Loves Fresh has supported nine small businesses so far. We hope to expand this network by partnering with Philadelphians like you.

Philly Loves Fresh participants will receive the following:

- Custom-designed Philly Loves Fresh signs and posters for your business
- Photos and videos of your business from a media shoot
- Media promotion of your business through social media, radio, and/or newspaper ads
- Website promotion through the Philly Loves Fresh web pages on www.foodfitphilly.org/phillylovesfresh
- Mini-grants to enhance or support your business operations
- Assistance with future license, grants and loan opportunities/applications

To participate in the Philly Loves Fresh campaign, you must meet the following eligibility requirements:

- Are currently operating a mobile or stationary produce truck, stand or cart
- Sell mainly fresh produce (inventory is at least 90% fruits and vegetables)
